

ANCESTRAL LAND

BY SOLEIL MOON MILLER

DIFFERNT TYPES OF FARMING

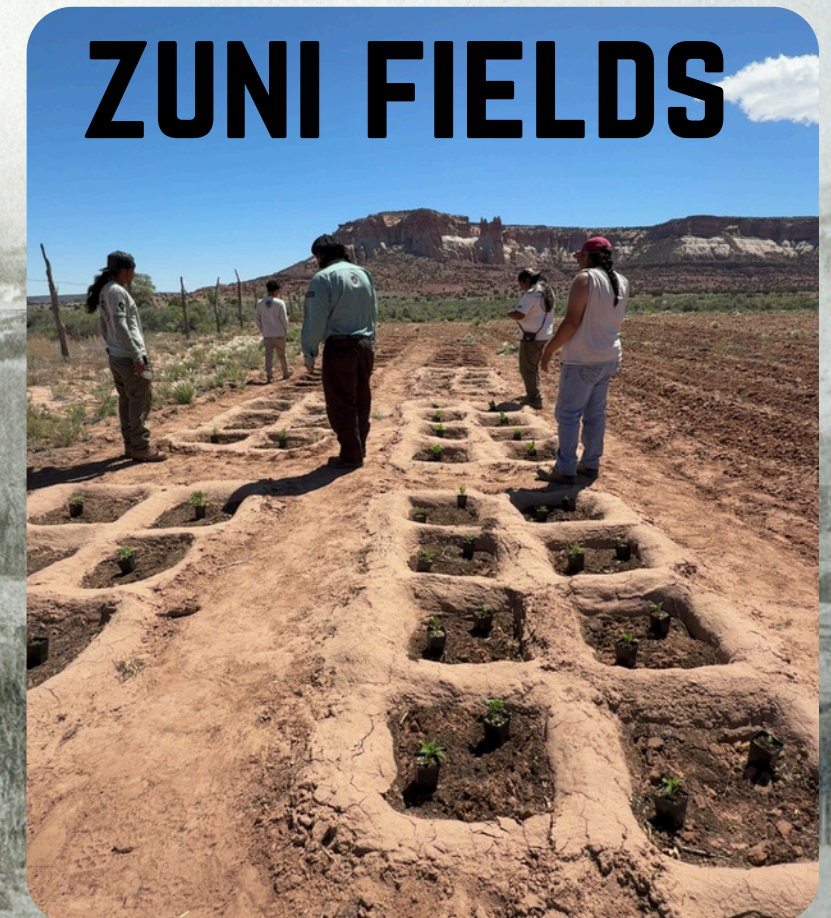

ACOMA FIELDS

ACOMA GREEN HOUSE

ISLETA FIELDS

ZUNI FIELDS

WAYS OF WATERING

ZUNI, ACOMA AND ISLETA ALL WATER THERE FIRLEDS VERY DIFFERNTLY. SUCH AS ISLETA WE WOULD USE THE DRIP LINE IRRIGATION THE WATER WILL SLOWLY DRIP RIGHT ON TO THE SOIL AND PLANTS. ACOMA WOULD USE THE FLOOD IRRIGATIONHIS IS THE OLDEST AND SIMPLEST METHOD. FARMERS DIG SMALL CHANNELS OR TRENCHES BETWEEN ROWS OF CROPS AND LET WATER FLOOD OR FLOW THROUGH THEM BY GRAVIT AND LASTLY ZUNI WOULD JUST FILL BUSKETS OF WATER AND SPILL THEM IN YOUR CROPS.

ANCESTRAL LAND

Ancestral lands has 5 different offices that focus on every different need in their community. Hopi focuses more on the wood life and the community is in need for wood for burning stoves. Acoma is the head office of ancestral land the program and help their war chief with seeds and helping their community. Acoma also has their own seed bank where they have seeds from almost a decade ago.

Albuquerque does a bit of everything from helping the community to teach skills to the youth and their very own forest program. Isleta office focuses more on a farm to a hiking club and the forest program teaching how to handle chainsaw safely. Working for ancestral lands has taught me a lot from my community to more of other pueblos.

SACRED WATERS

in sacred water conference we learned a lot more about farming, ways of watering and got to meet a lot of other natives across the world same with a very of moaoril people they give us very powerful speeches on there own community and how losing water can impact a lot in everyone community. on the first day my dance group dance for them and then the next me n ancertal land crew did the open prayer and our inactions. for the last day they bless us with there own water from across the world.

